Pre-Anesthetic/Surgery Consent Release Form

Your pet is here for anesthesia/surgery and should do fine. Prior to anesthesia we will perform a full physical exam to assess his/her state of health. However, pre-existing conditions not evident in a pre-surgical exam can and/or may lead to unforeseen complications. This is why we highly recommend the procedures listed below that are not included in the cost of your pets routine procedure:

Pre-anesthetic blood panel to screen for any liver or kidney problems that could interfere with anesthetic recovery.

- Yes, I wish to have the recommended tests for my pet.
- No, I have decided to refuse the recommended blood work at this time and request that you continue with the procedures.
- Doctor's discretion.

I.V. Catheter placed preoperatively giving us the means to quickly treat any complications, which may arise. This is required with certain procedures.

- Yes
- No
- Doctor's discretion

Laser Surgery is used for a wide variety of surgical procedures (decreases bleeding, seals the nerve endings) resulting in much less pain and allows for faster recovery.

- Yes
- No
- Doctor's discretion

Pre-anesthetic ECG to check for underlying heart disease prior to sedation.

- Yes
- No

Post-operative Pain Management

Please give my pet pain reliever after surgery.

- Yes
- No
- Doctor's discretion

Do you wish your pet to go home with oral medication for continued pain management during recovery from this procedure?

- Yes
- No
- Doctor's discretion

You may also elect to have your pet microchipped while he/she is under anesthesia. You will be able to have you and your pet's information registered into a national database to aid in identification and recovery should your pet ever become lost.

- Yes
- No

You may also elect to radiograph your pet's hips while he/she is under anesthesia. This will help us accurately evaluate conformation and screen for signs of dysplasia.

- Yes
- No

I understand there are inherent risks with anesthesia/surgery and will not hold Sugar Hill Animal Hospital responsible for unseen complications.
